National Labor Relations Board

Privacy Impact Assessment for the
Next Generation Case Management System (NxGen)
August 2019

Background

Rapid advancements in computer technology make it possible to store and retrieve vast amounts of data of all kinds quickly and efficiently. These advancements have raised concerns about the impact of large computerized information systems on the privacy of data subjects. Public concerns about highly integrated information systems operated by the government make it imperative to commit to a positive and aggressive approach to protecting individual privacy. We have instituted the Privacy Impact Assessment in order to ensure that the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) appropriately considers privacy issues from the earliest stages of design.

Purpose

The purpose of the privacy compliance documentation, the Privacy Threshold Analysis (PTA) and Privacy Impact Assessment (PIA) is to determine if the proposed plan to collect, maintain, and use data in an automated system will impact the Privacy rights of U. S. Citizens and lawfully admitted aliens.

Agency Process

NLRB's privacy compliance process is comprised of two phases. Phase 1, the initial assessment known as a Privacy Threshold Analysis (PTA), determines whether a formal PIA is necessary for the system. Following a review of the PTA, the IT Security Officer along with the Privacy Officer will determine if a more detailed PIA is necessary. If a more detailed PIA is necessary, the system will undergo Phase 2, a detailed assessment. Both phases require the gathering of system information on technical, legal, security, and privacy issues, along with identification and mitigation of privacy risks. PIA's are published to the public facing website, as NLRB's commitment to fostering transparency, regarding how the agency uses personally identifiable information (PII) to fulfill its mission.

Applicable laws and regulations affecting Privacy Act Data

- Privacy Act of 1974, as Amended (5 USC 552a) which affords individuals the right to privacy in records that are maintained and used by Federal agencies.
- Computer Security Act of 1987 (Public Law 100-235) establishing minimum-security practices for Federal IT systems.
- Matching and Privacy Act of 1988 (Public Law 100-503).
- OMB Circular A-130 and A-130 revised. Guidance on the "Security of Federal Automated Information Systems" provides uniform government-wide information to Federal agencies on compliance of fair information practices, security and reporting requirements. Appendix III and makes minor technical revisions to the Circular to reflect the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (P.L. 104-13).

- Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), as Amended (5 USC 552) which provides for the disclosure of information maintained by Federal agencies to the public while allowing limited protections for privacy.

Definitions

Accounting of Disclosures – a record showing all third party disclosures made from a system. The disclosure accounting shows the date, recipient name, recipient address, purpose, and the data elements disclosed. You need not account for disclosures made to NLRB employees who require access to the data to perform official duties.

Accuracy – within sufficient tolerance for error to assure the quality of the record in terms of its use in making a determination.

Completeness – all elements necessary for making a determination are present before such determination is made.

Determination – any decision affecting an individual which, in whole or in part, is based on information contained in the record and which is made by any person or agency.

Disclosure – the transfer of any personal information from a system of records by any means of communication (oral, written, electronic, mechanical, or actual review) to any person, private entity, or government agency, other than the subject of the record, the subject's designated agent, or the subject's legal guardian.

Necessary – a threshold of need for an element of information greater than mere relevance and utility. A data element is "necessary" if the program cannot function properly or efficiently without it.

Personal Data – data about an individual that is personal in nature. Personal data may consist of home address; home email address; home telephone numbers; date and place of birth; marital status; names of spouse and children; financial, credit, and medical data; SSN; take home pay; credit card account numbers; mother's maiden name; other names used; government life and health insurance options elected; criminal history; for individuals assigned to (or about to be assigned to) overseas, sensitive, or routinely duty stations, their names, duty stations, duty addresses, and duty telephone numbers; performance ratings; race and national origin data; citizenship; religion; annual and sick leave use and balances; security clearance information; drug test results; and the fact of participation in rehabilitation or employee assistance programs. The following data elements are NOT normally considered personal: U.S. based work addresses and work telephone numbers; position data; performance elements; date of rank; source of commission; education level; education and training paid for by the government; job related certifications; current and past annual salary rates (but not take home pay); position titles; occupational series; and current and past grades. NOTE: If you are not sure if the data elements you plan to collect are considered "personal," contact NLRB Privacy Officer.

Record – any item, collection or grouping of information about an individual and identifiable to that individual that is maintained by an agency.

Relevance – limitation to only those elements of information which clearly bear on the determination(s) for which the records are intended. A data element is "relevant" if you cannot make a determination without it.

Routine Use – the disclosure of a record outside the National Labor Relations Board for a use that is compatible with the purpose for which the information was collected and maintained. The "Routine Users" that have been authorized access to each NLRB data system are listed in the governing NLRB or government-wide Privacy Act system notice. The NLRB and Government Wide systems are described at: http://www.access.gpo.gov/su_docs/aces/PrivacyAct.shtml and http://www.whitehouse.gov/omb/memoranda/m99-05-c.html

System of Records – a group of any records under the control of any agency from which information is retrieved by the name of the individual or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual. Each Federal agency is required to publish in the Federal Register full descriptions of its systems of records. Some systems of records are "owned" by one agency but maintained at another agency. The "owning" agency is responsible for publishing a system notice for all Federal agencies to follow. These are referred to as "Government Wide" system notices.   Example 1: Civilian Official Personnel Files are "owned" by the Office of Personnel Management but maintained at the employing agency. OPM publishes the system notice. Example 2: Workers Compensation Case files are "owned" by the Department of Labor but maintained at the employing agency. Thus, Labor publishes the system notice. The NLRB and Government Wide systems are described at: http://www.access.gpo.gov/su_docs/aces/PrivacyAct.shtml and http://www.whitehouse.gov/omb/memoranda/m99-05-c.html

Third Party – an organization, entity, or individual other than the record subject himself, his designated agent, or his legal guardian. For purposes of disclosure accountings, a NLRB employee is not considered a "third party" when performing officially assigned duties.
