Anyone who opposes unions, or their need to exist does not know the history of how labor unions started or why they exist. Unions exist as a balance between big money bosses and the workers, who only want a fair wage and will be the biggest cheer leaders for their companies when treated fairly. Just as government needs checks and balances so one voice doesn't make choices that don't work for the common good, unions are the balance between the voice of a company board and the many voices of workers who really do want the company they work for to thrive, while treating the workers fairly. We need this balance. Otherwise we return to the days of feudal lords.

Large Corporations have Boards designed to work with the Unions to turn out, SAFELY, a quality product for the nation's citizens.

Unscrupulous Corporations, for example the Trump Organization, want workers AFRAID to ask for their rights or, more importantly, employees who will not 'blow the whistle' on shoddy work out of fear.

OSHA is supposed to handle that but from my past experience of 40 years in construction OSHA disappears behind their desks during a Republican White House.

Gregory Bronson

Organized labor provides a strong voice to those who work in a reliable and professional manner to provide our economy with quality goods and services. For almost a century, the NLRB has acted to ensure every member of a labor organization has representation by regulating election procedures for those organizations. The current proposals to impose impediments to the union election process are an assault on worker's rights and an imposition that erodes our democratic rights and institutions. Union elections need to be fair and open to all who are interested in participating. Additional restrictions on this process are unAmerican and pose a dangerous threat to the liberty of our nation and its workers.

As a former educator, I always belonged to our union. It was invaluable in supporting our rights as teachers and in other roles we played in the school. I have taught in both middle and high schools, served as Title I Coordinator and as a GEAR UP Project Director. I was also an active union member, having belonged to both AFT and NEA at various periods during my tenure. It is extremely important to have these forums.

Sincerely,

telling the NLRB to protect our democratic rights in the workplace.

It should be EASIER, NOT HARDER for workers to have a voice on the job. The National Labor Relations Board was formed/ created to work for the PEOPLE of the United States, NOT for Mr. Trump's or corporate agendas. So SUPPORT unions, don't destroy them, for they are what created and sustained the middle class. There's not enough time in the day--of a teacher--for instance (like I was), for every single worker to speak individually to the superintendent to improve working conditions, get supplies, voice concerns, etc. THAT is why unions formed, it's why we have them. Please strengthen them; don't weaken or destroy them.

Thank you.

In solidarity,

Grace Hodges

The NLRB's mission is to protect employees' democratic rights in the workplace. Primary among these is the right to freely vote in a union election, without delay, obstacles or employer interference. Please do NOT rescind the 2014 election rules, but instead do everything possible to protect the rights of workers to a fair union election process.

jovinita meisenbach

Do not rescind the 2014 election rules. The NLRB's core mission is to protect employees' right to freely vote in a union election, without delay, obstacles or employer interference. Any changes should remove not add more obstacles that stand in the way of workers' freedom to vote.

Workers should be able to speak out without fear of retribution. I know you may disagree but, it's all about a democracy. Protesting, petitioning, and demonstrations are all about our being a Democracy. If you don't like democracy, you should not be president of a democracy.

REID READING

I respectfully request that you not rescind the 2014 election rules. The NLRB's core mission is to protect employees' right to freely vote in a union election, without delay, obstacles or employer interference. The unfortunate thing is that too many business owners and managers have only their own interests in mind. In this "free" country it is only fair that workers have a voice for their future as employees and it often takes the force of laws like the 2014 election reforms to make employers listen to their needs and recommendations.
